ASSOCIATION.

A company of young menhaving banded themselves together under the above title, for the purpose of cetablishing a Catholi- Library and Reading Room in New-York, called a public meeting in Hope Chapel last evening to help on the movement. Dr. A. O. BROWSSON, in addressing the audience, said we are here as a Missionary people. We are here said we are here as a Missionary people. We are here to Catholicise the country. This is termed a great country. We hear the expression on every hand.

Materially, it is great; but it remains with us, Catholice alone, to make it morally, intell-schually and spicitually great [Applause]. We are here, God's chosen instruments, for that purpose. And one of the most powerful means to that end is literature.

Mr. M'Maxens said, that although New York City numbers among her inhabitants 300 000 Catholies, not a single society existed where Catholies could go to meet Catholies for intellectual recreation. And yet, the most eminent meu in all professions here were the most eminent men in all professions here were Catholics. He hoped this state of things would exist no longer. Catholics were here not only to contribute no longer. Cathones were acre not only to control the support of their religion, and swear by their priests, but also to make the people of this country understand the value of the religion of Jesus Christ. If they did not to so, they would be wiped out from the land in a sea of blood. If the Association would be patient and persistent, he doubted not, in the course of a few years, it would rank with the first in the courtry.

Mr. RICHARD O'GORMAN made an eloquent address Mr. Richard O'Gorman made an eloquent address in behalf of the Assection, and took occasion to express his belief that the time had gone by when men of different father opposed each other at the point of the sword. He believed a more tolerant era had dawned upon the world, and men, in the uture, would have the good sense to respect each other's differences of religious opinion, and no longer fight the battles of Heaven with the weapons of Hell.

The Chairman announced that the Institution would be spened by the first of July.

ntie, which is now being coppered in the large Balance Dock, will be floated out and taken to the Novelty Works to receive her machinery. The work of cop-pering will be nearly finished to day. The progress of this is quite slow, as the workmen are required to be exceedingly careful and precise in their operations. The copper is not laid on, as usual, over thick felt and pitch; but simply over cotton duck, with an ample coat of white turpentine underneath. By this proc the woodwork is perfectly protected from the action of the water, the copper adheres more firmly, and the whole job is rendered smooth and even.

THE NEW AMERICAN COMEDY. "Tis ill playing with edged tools." This new comedy is to be produced at Burton's this evening. It has been played at the Boston Cheater, under Mr. Barry's management, not only with succees, but as our classic and fastidious friend "Byles" informs us, with a large amount of enthusiasm. The manager announced the piece as an original American comedy, from the pen of a young aspirant of New York, who preferred to remain "a great unknown." Crowded and fashionable audiences attended several performances, when a statement appeared in one of the Boston papers that the plot was stolen from Scribe's "Le Passion Se This announcement has never been contradicted by the author, nor has it been proved by the We have looked over every production of Scribe's with perhaps some ten, at the outside twenty, exceptions, without discovering the play abovenamed, and have been assured by a friend thoroughly posted in the French drama that such a title is not i cluded in the collected edition of the author's works. But if the assertion be true, we cannot see that it mil itates in any way against the merit of the comedy. Shakespeare borrowed his plets from Italian, French and German novelists and dramatists even of his own day. Sheridan plundered Kotzebue and Backingham. Bulwer appropriated the old story of the Basket maker and founded his original play of the Lady of Lyons on this well known subject. It has never been counted a fault in the classic Terence that he borrowed the plots of his comedies from Plantus. Even Scribe imself, from whom this American drama is said to be borrowed, is said to have borrowed every single one of his plays from others and to be a thorough plagiarist in plot and incident. So is said of our own in initable Dion. The real secret is, as happily expressed by a gifted crator at the dramatic dinner some evenings since, "they are all old things, it is all in the setting.

Why, then, are we to denounce a young American and a young American alone, for following an example set in all ages and all nations ! What is there original in the plot of Paradise Lost? of Hiawatha? or of the great national epic of the Columbiad ? If the story is well developed and the characters stand on the can was in original shape and pleasing perspective, what care we for the source from which the plot took its rise. Let us judge the comedy by its own intrinsic merit, and thank Mr. Burton in this as in many other instances for his brave desire to encourage " American

A good man was buried yesterday. What more can be said of the funeral of Joseph Curtiss? We cannot add to that one line by saying that Dr. Bellow's Church, corner of Fourth avenue and Twentieth street, was crowded with mourners-real sincere mourners; because all who knew the man mourn his death, whether present or not. We can say, however, that all who heard the history of his life, as it was beautifully given from that pulpit, are this day better men, women and children, because the story of such a life cannot fail to make all who hear it better, if they are capable of improvement. Who would not be proud to think that their end might be like that of the good man who was buried yesterday?

By the Annual Report of the Association it appears that they have made progress in their good work; but the managers still appeal to the charity of their friends for material aid, to enable them to promote the happiness of those little girls who we daily see picking rags from our streets for support. COMMERCIAL MATTERS

The transactions at the Stock Board this morning were large, but the tendency of prices generally was downward. Some considerable sales of Erie broke the market, and the other descriptions sympathized. The sales of Eric are supposed to have been induced by the calling is of loans by one or two of the banks, and it was feared that this calling would become general At the close the market was firmer for Erie, which was the only stock bid for to any extent. It closed at 56%, a decline of | P cent. The New Haven Railroad Company have denied, brough the City papers, the truth of our statement in gard to the case of the Mechanics' Bank against that ad in the Court of Appeals. We had good authority for our statement, but no one is infallible and our in formant may have been wrong. Still we respectfully submit that it does not inevitably follow that he is so because Mr. Nicholas Hill, jr., says he is. We are not at all surprised that the New-Haven managers are anxious to disbelieve our statement. It is proper to state that we did not intend to convey the idea that the official decision of the Court had been rendered, but that the opinions of the Judges were adverse to the Read. Homer Ramsdell, President of the Long Dock Co., has advertised for proposals for grading two miles of railroad, including a double-track tunnel, about 4,900 feet long. The tunnel is located in Hudson City, about one mile from the Hudson River, and through the rage of trap rock known as Bergen Hill. The whole work to be completed on or before the first day of November, 1857. The decline in Flour is again 12 je. P bbl., which, with the reduction in freights, has brought the prices within the limits of foreign orders. At a further decline of Mc. there would be a considerable demand for export. The better grades are steady and in fair request; State brands are selling at $5 87] #86 25; Caradian and Southern descriptions are also lower. Wheat is in fair demand for milling and the market is firm; sales of White Genesee at $1 91, and St. Louis at $1 97. Corn is firm and in good demand at 60 967c. Sugars are in better demand, and grades suitable for retailing are le, higher. Refiners continue to purchase freely. About 1,000 hbds Cuba sold at 6} 97fe. In Melnases there is no change to note. In Bacon and Cut Meats there is no change of importance. The movement in Cotton is active and buoyant; about 5,000 bales sold to day at le. advance. Trateller has the impression that the Cotton market is being cornered. It says:

"The appearance of the market at this time indicates the progress of one of the greatest speculations which has been contemplated for many yoars. There is good resson to behave that parties at the South, in New York, and in England, and possibly also in France, have combined to control the cotton market, and carry up prices to a high figure. These parties have no doubt been influenced to this course by the expectation that the cression of the Russian war, cheap broadstiffs, and an easy money market in Europe, will produce an active demand for cotton and increase greatly its consumption. The expansion of the loans of the New York and the Southern banks, the large purchases of cotton are say in the Southern ports or in transit, with various other minor circumstances which it is not necessary to commende, convince us that the cornering office practised in the Wall street stock market has been transferred to the cotton crop, and that it at details of the speculators, who must have been furnished by the New-York banks as well as by those in the Southern States with an immense sum of money, to held the stock of cotton on hazed and commel con in the Southern States with an immense sum of money, to beld the stock of cotton on hand and compel consumers to pay a greatly enhanced price for the article during the remainder of the season.

"We do not believe in the success of this speculaduring the remainder of the season.

"We do not believe in the success of this speculation, and think it highly probable that it will before many weeks topple down about the heads of its opativiers and use them up completely. Our reasons for this belief are, that the crop being ample for the wasts of all consumers, they will not be in a harry to purchase their stocks, and that the speculators cannot carry through the season anything like the quantity which will be requisite to force prices up above present rates, if indeed they are able to sustain them where they are now. The stock in the shipping ports at the present time is about 600,000 more will be received during the season. In this case, to carry out the speculation successfully, it will be requisite to hold the control for months of at 165t half a million bales, which will require $25,000,000, and which sam the speculators will be wholly unable to command, with all the aid which the Southern banks may be disposed to extend to them, especially if exchange keeps up to the specie point, which it is like to do for three or four months to come.

"The only chance for the speculators is that the crop may unexpectedly prove 300,000 bales short of the most reliable estimates. Whespers to this effort have been made during the last fortnight, but is probably a mere ruse of the operators to alarm and bring forward purchasers. There is no dimination of receiptary where except at Mobile and Savannah, and this is understood in well informed quarters to be owing to the bad state of the roads in Alaba na, Tennessee and Georgis.

Before the George Law left here for Aspiawall arrangemen a were made that she should touch at San Juan on her way to this port, or that she should ren that that institution is about to resume business. The notes are now redeemed at par. A remarkable fact, indicating the rapid increase of business at Chicago, is, that one day last we k 3,000 teams passed the office of the Illinois Central Railroad Company on one of the streets which two years age was the dullest portion of the city.

We give below a Rio Janeiro Circular, received via New-Bedford 13 days later than previous advices. The outrages upon the railroads connecting at Brie, Pensylvania, appear to be now in a tair way of settlement, but upon Alegrine terms. These unfortunate Companies have been obliged to pay tribute to Penssylvania to be allowed to exercise their charter rights, and to prevent their property from being seupon the Legislature of Pennsylvania by the citizens of that State to settle the and North Fast Railroad question has been extr me and too strong to be resisted. Pennsylvania has still many public enterprises unfinished, and par ties coming here to borrow money found the cold shoulder invariably turned upon their projects. There ould be no safety to capitalists in investing in scourities issued under the laws of Pennsylvania while that State evinced the most entire disregard of the rights of property of corporations and individuals, and yielding to the clamer of a mob sequestered millions of private property, only to be redeemed by an ample ransom. The requisition upon the A btabula Road was to the extent of $500,000, upon the Frie and North-east $400,000, while the Erie pays tribute of $10,000 per annum for the privilege of rusping a few miles along the borders of the inhospitable territory of Pennsylvania. Parties interested in the unfinished roads of that State fluding that New York capitalists, and foreign capitalists residing here, could not be induced even to look at their securities, have brought their influence to bear upon the Legislature that the Erie and North-east matter should be arranged in some manner, so that the unfortunate stockholders should again obtain their property. The part culars of this case were given in an editorial in this ournal some days since. The Senate of Pennsylvania has now passed a bill restoring the road to the stockhelders upon condition that the Company shall subscribe $400,000 to the stock of the Erie and Pittsburgh Railread Company.
